OVERVIEW

The Equity Income strategy's primary goal is to provide reasonable income while also offering the potential for capital appreciation.

Capital preservation strategies underperformed the broader market in the third quarter. The "risk-on" sentiment, which continued into the third quarter, favored more speculative, low-profitability companies instead of equities with steady, reliable cash flows. These strategies, which focus on minimizing volatility and prioritizing stable assets, couldn't capture outsized returns as the overall US market and growth stocks outperformed, particularly the Information Technology and Communication Services sectors. Overall, traditionally defensive sectors like Health Care and Energy (which make up a large percentage of the portfolio) have outperformed year-to-date due to specific equity holdings. Relative to the benchmark, the Equity Income strategy delivered a return of about +3.8% in the third quarter, outperforming the underlying benchmark, which rose about +2.5%.

In the quarter, we had no trades to report.

As always, we continue to look for opportunities to upgrade the quality of the portfolio while staying true to our disciplined valuation process.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results. The information contained herein is for illustrative purposes only and nothing within is, or is intended to constitute financial, tax or legal advice and should not be construed as personalized investment advice. Performance results prior to July 2020 occurred under the management of another investment advisor, Willingdon Wealth Management ("WWM"). That portfolio manager was solely responsible for selecting the securities to be bought and sold and was affiliated with an investment advisor other than Exencial. WWM and its strategies were acquired in July 2020 and at that time became part of Exencial and its investment strategies. The investment results prior to July 2020 are based on the performance of the Equity Income Strategy in WWM accounts. Exencial now has access to and maintains the records supporting the performance of these accounts from inception to July 2020 and thereafter. From 09/01/2012 through the current month performance is based on the composite return net of fees of accounts invested in the Equity Income Strategy. Accounts where the portfolio managers do not have full discretion to manage the updates from either the client or advisor are excluded from the composite.

All performance returns reflect the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings and the deduction of Exencial's investment advisory fee. Exencial's investment advisory fees are described in Part 2A of its Form ADV, which is available upon request. Clients may also incur other transactions costs such as brokerage commissions, custodial costs, and other expenses which are not reflected in the performance returns herein. The information contained herein has been compiled by the firm utilizing data and information from sources we deem reliable. However, the information has not been audited or independently verified and is not guaranteed. The charts and graphs represented herein are provided for informational purposes only and cannot in and of themselves be used to determine which investments to purchase or sell, or when to purchase or sell. Actual client accounts utilizing the Equity Income Strategy may experience different weightings and allocation and as such, the performance of a specific individual client account may vary substantially from the Equity Income Strategy results. Exencial may depart from its strategic asset class allocations for particular strategies and allocate more or less to any asset class, or to other asset classes, in an attempt to add to the portfolio's overall returns. Exencial makes no representations that the results presented herein reflect the typical experience of an Exencial client nor that current or prospective clients will experience similar results in comparable situations. The Equity Income Strategy holdings listed herein do not represent all of the securities purchased, sold, or recommended for clients during the reflected time period. Information on the methodology used to calculate the performance and a list reflecting the contribution of each holding in the Equity Income Strategy composite's overall performance during the time period is available upon request. Different types of investments involve varying degrees of risk, including total loss of principal, and there can be no assurance that any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable or equal the results portrayed herein. The information presented herein is subject to change without notice and should not be considered as a recommendation to buy or sell any types of securities, or which securities to buy or sell. Comparison of the Equity Income Strategy to the various indices set forth above is for illustrative purposes only and the benchmarks have not been selected to represent the most appropriate or comparable benchmark with which to compare the Equity Income Strategy performance, but rather to allow for comparison of the Equity Income Strategy's performance with well-known and widely recognized benchmark indices. It is not possible to directly invest in an index, as indices are unmanaged, hypothetical vehicles that serve as market indicators and do not account for the deduction of investment management fees or transaction costs generally associated with investable products, which otherwise have the effect of reducing the performance of an actual investment portfolio. The securities held in clients' accounts following a particular strategy and the Equity Income Strategy may differ significantly from the securities included in a benchmark index, and the volatility of the securities may differ significantly from that of the benchmark index. A description of each index is available upon request. References to specific securities are presented principally to illustrate the firm's investment methodology or approach and are not being referenced to demonstrate Exencial's performance or investment results. Exencial is under no obligation to hold any equity position for any time period and Exencial's current recommendations are subject to change at any time without notice. A complete list of portfolio holdings and specific securities transactions for the preceding 12 months is available upon request. The information contained herein has been obtained from sources we believe to be reliable.

The Nasdaq US Multi-Asset Diversified Income Index is designed to provide exposure to multiple asset segments, each selected to result in a consistent and high yield for the index. The Index is comprised of securities classified as US equities, US Real-Estate Investment Trusts (REITs), US preferred securities, US master-limited partnerships (MLPs) and a high-yield corporate debt Exchange-Traded Fund (ETF).
